

Our supporters create bequests in the following ways:

- a specified percentage of their estate
- a specific dollar amount
- a residue or a portion of the residue
- a specific asset such as superannuation, bank accounts or shares

Bequest gifts may support:

- Support in the area of greatest need, as determined by CEO.
- a nominated project area
- Scholarships to support teen parents
- set up of a brave village hub in a high need area

No fundraising or administrative costs are taken from bequests.

Who We Are

Brave Foundation is an Australian not-for-profit charity that equips those experiencing teenage pregnancy and parenting with resources, referral and education opportunities to facilitate happy, healthy and skilled families over time.

Brave Foundation's model has social inclusion at its heart and fosters capacity building through community connectedness. It promotes a cultural shift away from the stigmatisation of teen parents to one of acceptance and nurture of the mother and child.

“Building a village of acceptance and support around every person facing teenage pregnancy and parenthood.”

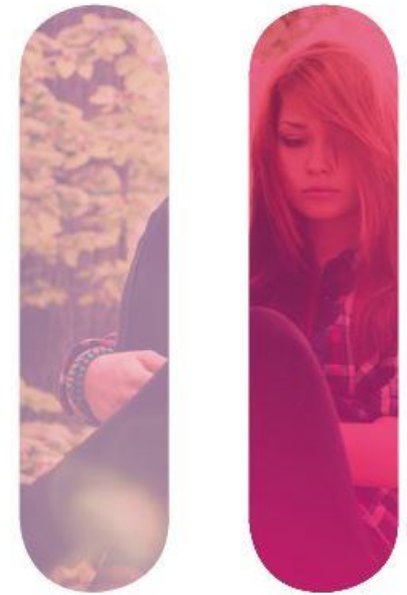

Contact Us

If you, or your solicitor, would like to speak to someone at Brave Foundation about leaving a bequest in your Will please contact us today: Phone: 1800 827 441

Brave Foundation
Po Box 118
Blackmans Bay TAS 7052

www.bravefoundation.org.au

Brave Foundation

Gift of a Bequest

Story of Anne Tomlinson Walsh

Anne Tomlinson Walsh was one of 12 children, had no children of her own that we know, and had no family or loved ones close to her at the time of her death.

During her life, Anne had a passion for education of young women, particularly those that were vulnerable to higher risks, including teenage pregnancy.

In 2011, when Anne was in palliative care, she requested that her lawyer research national charities that assist those facing teenage pregnancy in order to receive their education.

Her lawyer came back with some opportunities, including Brave Foundation's details and a copy of the book Brave Little Bear, Bernadette Black the CEO and Founding Director's own personal story of teen pregnancy, and presented these to Anne.

Bernadette received a phone call from Anne's lawyer late in 2013 to inform her that Anne had passed away 18 months earlier and left a portion of her estate to Brave Foundation.

It is due to this generous gift that Brave Foundation's national vision has been realised. And it is due to this generous gift that 24,000 teenagers, their families, friends and communities will receive support and assistance that they have never had before. This amazing gift will literally be a gift for generations of families in Australia and beyond.

As Brave Foundation moves to launch its major projects to continue our work, we would love you to consider us as a part of your estate and gift planning.

Leaving a bequest to Brave Foundation

Leaving a bequest to Brave Foundation is a powerful way to help support vulnerable teen parents in our community once and for all.

Advising us of your intention to make a gift to Brave Foundation in your Will greatly assists us in planning for the future. It also provides us with an opportunity to discuss with you the area of Brave Foundation you would like to support and to thank you in person.

Our legal name is: Brave Foundation and the ABN is 24 138 282 210. Brave Foundation is a charitable institution and is endorsed as a deductible gift recipient.

The following language may be used as an example for the bequest:

"I give _____ to Brave Foundation for Education Projects to be used for educational purposes."
